Spiritual Abundance

How abundantly are you living life? Are you open to every gift from God or does the worry and stress of life take precedence, extinguishing the hope of attaining inner peace, happiness, love, and true spiritual enlightenment? Many people are closed to the greater possibilities that the attitude of abundance can bring. Living life focused on what you do not have can consume thought so completely that the concept of greater possibility does not even enter consciousness. It can create a spiritual prison where many reside, peering out, desperately desiring something different, yet not knowing why they appear stuck in a restricted life expression.

A continual focus on the presence of scarcity usually produces a cyclic effect of manifesting just that; the more disharmonious the energy fed into this thought form, the denser and more solidified it becomes, making it even more difficult to transcend. In the current obsession towards resource consumption, too many people are programmed to believe this “lack of” living attitude is the main power shaping and forming our lives. It certainly can be if we allow it to rule our existence. A focused belief on scarcity convinces people they are victims of fate with no capability to empower their lives in any meaningful way.

Creation follows universal laws; wherever energy is focused, it produces an effect. These laws are born from great comprehensive yet simplistic Divine Wisdom. Too much of the mass mind is programmed with the restrictions of scarcity, victimization, and powerlessness. This programming is subtle and addictive and most are not aware of the unhealthiness of such belief systems. It can be strangely paradoxical, producing uncomfortable feelings in conjunction with a simultaneous feeling of relief. It is uncomfortable because the true wisdom of the heart rebels at accepting anything less than the highest truth possible. Relief is present when one lazily gives in to accepting a lesser truth instead of working that much harder to transcend it. The effects created as a result of the energy one produces is a tremendous responsibility because it touches everything in life. Unfortunately, it is convenient and easy to remain a victim; one can then indulge in assigning blame to other people or circumstances for any perceived weakness or failure. Blaming others is far easier than achieving self-empowerment. The hold of this mindset is potent and produces a safe hiding place for those who are too fearful or unable to grow into a greater maturity.

Abundance is an attitude that changes the energy patterns in the entire etheric body. The presence of enlightened energy patterns in the etheric is a mirror of how one has accepted the gift of life. Manifesting these changes also redefines our relationship with our Creator. We begin to feel and resonate to the power of Divine Love. When we can absorb such intensity, it activates a transformative effect in our lives. This is the core fuel that powers the source of our existence. It is this love that continually drives us forward in our persistent spiritual quest to forever find our way back to our spiritual home deep within God's heart. Expansive love builds strength of soul and Spirit to sustain one on any chosen spiritual path and to achieve important soul lessons.

The yearning for Love is the most rudimentary and defining trait shared among all humans. We have all been created from the most exquisite Divine Love; we all have a spark of it within us. It is up to us to restore our connection to Source. God's Love is so intense that it forms the very essence of abundance. Without it, we cannot survive; without it, doubt and fear permeate the heart, breeding weakness, instability, and disharmony. Living with abundant love is critical to a healthy and fulfilling life; it is the spiritual food of our species.

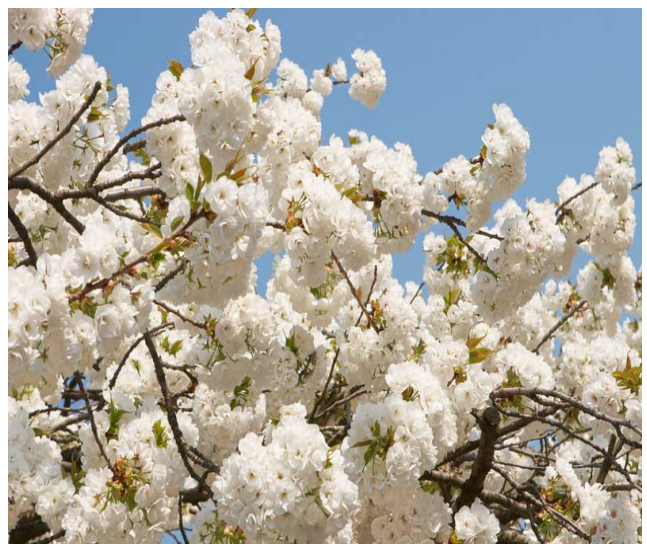

“Abundance is not something we acquire. It is something we tune into.”

Wayne Dyer

Being abundant creates abundance. Strive to express an abundant Spirit that embraces and rejoices in life. When we are filled with God's Love, our approach is automatically one of amazement, gratitude, and appreciation. The transcendent power of loving abundance can only be achieved by connecting our hearts to God's Heart. Continuing to expand love internally will eventually provide the seeker with unparalleled spiritual clarity and wisdom.

Know that you can transcend all limitations.

“The future is lighted for us with the radiant colors of hope”

The higher mind exists beyond all conditioned thought. It requires a condition of inner peace, a quiet receptive place, where without effort to find a logical answer, the higher mind is then free to speak. It speaks not as an objective voice but as an intuitive flash, an insight into problems deemed unsolvable. Inspiration and Enlightenment stem from this inner wisdom and the intuitives of our species have found it more dependable in deciding important matters than objective intellect. This inner subjective higher guidance flows into the receptive mind from the more advanced energies of the multi-dimensional soul.

Our dearly esteemed Brother, Ralph Waldo Emerson said, “We do not think our best thoughts, they come to us in unguarded, relaxed moments.” Many people lack the faith to mentally let go. Faith requires a measure of courage to give the controlling little ego-self a rest and let the larger or higher self take care of things. This latter is an intelligence that supercedes us, knows more than we do, and understands what we do not yet know. For the mystics, the spiritual, and the intuitives of the human species, this higher self or soul is a treasury of wisdom, truth, and reality that is always and easily available.

The ancient initiates of India, Egypt, and Greece taught that the human soul is the child of heaven. Before it was born on earth, they said the soul had a series of corporeal and spiritual existences. The biological father and mother of each lifetime can only engender the child; always remember that his or her soul comes from somewhere else.

“God dwells in the inner part of every man but few know how to find him. The Soul which has found God is freed from rebirth and death, from old age and pain, and drinks the waters of Immortality”

Bhagavad-Gita

When people have faith, they learn to be self-reliant, to stand on their own two feet – not dependent upon persons or things outside themselves. Then, in essence, it is faith which has enabled you to experience the reality of a greater freedom in the world of form. You will live in the present moment, possess initiative and confidence, but also travel on ever-ascending planes toward a mystic understanding of eternal life.

“The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mystical. It is the source of all true art and science. He to whom this emotion is a stranger, who can no longer wonder and stand rapt in awe, is as good as dead: his eyes are closed...To know that what is impenetrable to us really exists, manifesting itself as the highest wisdom and the most radiant beauty which our dull faculties can comprehend only in the most primitive form—this knowledge, this feeling, is at the center of true religiousness. In this sense, and in this sense only, I belong to the ranks of the devoutly religious men.”

Albert Einstein

Those with the most profound gifts of faith are usually the mystics. They are far more than the dreamers and visionaries; true mystics are initiates into the unifying principle of life.

Rather than having passive, fruitless lives they are active, dynamic, productive, and deeply involved members of society who often inspire others and spur them on to action. It is in the developed and advanced mystical initiate of enduring faith that we see the ideal take the form of the real.

Conversely, the person who denies a higher power, rejects a greater order in the Universe, and refuses to believe in the never-ending magical mysteries of life, has no need whatsoever for faith. It is as useful to them as the toys they outgrew in childhood. Such rigid beliefs can cut you off from having personal experiences with the transcendent. Therefore, your intention, to a large extent, determines the future events in your life for the universe will always give you what you seek. Choose your way ahead with great wisdom as this decision frequently makes a tremendous difference in the quality of one's life.

What you Truly want out of Life

*What you truly want out of life,
Cannot be found in the world,
Because what you truly desire,
What you truly long for,
Can only be found within the self.*

*It does not exist and it cannot,
Be found outside of you,
You must search within the heart,
Do not take for granted these mysteries,
Of the heart for it is your true messenger.*

*The Way of the Heart is the only road,
Paved with Happiness, Joy, and Fulfillment,
For those things we hold in the hand,
Can never be as profound as what,
We hold deep within the heart.*

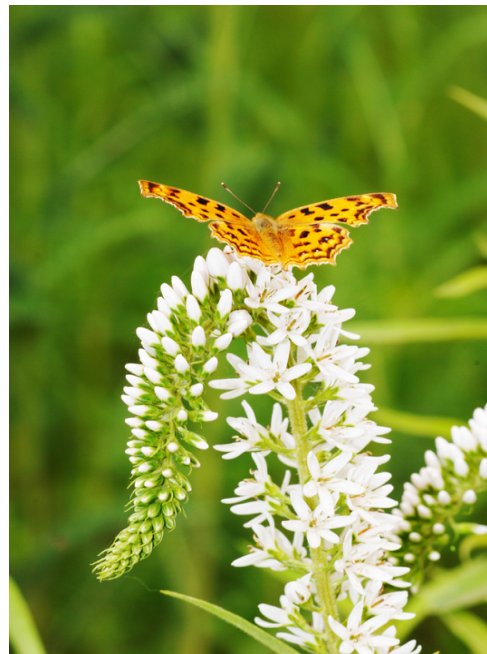

*There is a force ever increasing,
Ever expanding and forever developing,
It is larger than the world itself,
And it is the very origin of light,
We call this vast power of Eternal Life--- Love.*

Lanto

The human heart feels things the eyes cannot see, and knows what the mind cannot understand.

Beyond Human Spirituality

We can all experience the wholeness of connecting to nature. There is such a peaceful gentleness there: energies rejuvenate the soul. This spiritual experience with animals and plants is so pure, almost infinite in its ability to soothe, balance, and strengthen the force of life.

It is different from our spiritual connection with humans. Having a relationship with the different kingdoms in Nature allows us to experience higher levels of love.

Have you ever observed your pets?

They do not talk but communicate with sounds, barks, meows and the mysterious revelations of body language. Animals teach us to exist without depending on an identification with words, without an identification to only one species, and eventually they help move us beyond form into areas of greater “Being”. They teach us to be perceptive to other forms of consciousness.

In history, animals served as messengers of Gods, some with supernatural abilities. In this way, they serve the language of Spirit. Animals are so perceptive: they can sense energy fluctuations making us aware, in a unique way, of another world of electric relationship, frequencies, and vibrations. This kingdom easily senses danger, happiness and sadness. My cat knows when someone does not like her. She runs under the bed.

Yet, she can smother my guests with affection when she senses the energy is receptive. And how about the playfulness of dolphins? Unbelievable are the visions of them flying through the air and it is such an amazing magical experience to swim with them. Animals help us transcend the rigid boundaries known to humankind allowing us to explore new areas of expanding consciousness. The interconnectedness of all species helps in the knowing of God. We open our hearts and mind as one when unity, compassion, and understanding are present in a situation even when circumstances are unfamiliar. Then, it is easy to be in peace, accepting all for what it is.

One day I went to a farm that allows customers to pick their own fruits and vegetables. I walked through the farm at 7:00 a.m. before the stiffening heat set in. The excitement of seeing beautifully manicured rows of crops meeting the horizon lifted my heart in gratitude. I remember walking out as far as I could, swinging my bucket, closing my eyes, and breathing in the presence of God. Tears ran down my face. This was a thrilling moment, the very first time, of feeling, touching, and communing with our Creator. Do you remember your own first sacred moment? Is there something that takes you beyond human spirituality into a deep interconnectedness with the whole? Link with me, I want to love your heart.....
